

Entries tagged with 'Choice Eats'

Choice Eats: How Much Peruvian Tuna with Potatoes Can One Person Eat?

Posted by Ed Levine, March 12, 2008 at 12:45 PM

Choice Eats was a fun event. It was reasonably well-organized, lines for food were not ridiculously long, and it was terrific fun to see all these international foods being served to people who would probably never venture to these restaurants on their own.

I didn't try everything, but Fatty Crab's tender-as-all-get-out beef ribs on rice were a highlight, as was Fette Sau's pastrami, though half of the brisket they used to make it was barely smoked. I also liked Mercadito's impossibly cute two-bite shrimp tacos. I truly regret not trying Kampuchea's ribs, which by all accounts were crazy good.

Continue reading »

2 Comments | Tagged: Choice Eats, NYC

Win Tickets to the 'Village Voice' Choice Eats Event in NYC

Posted by Ed Levine, March 8, 2008 at 10:00 AM

Most eat-around events in New York feature

Hello, serious eaters!

You need a Serious Eats account to comment on Ed Levine Eats. Log In or register to add your 2¢.

Bunny Marshmallows - Ideas?

9 comments

RADISH. Love it OR Leave it??

21 comments

What are your plans for Easter?

1 comment

More at seriouseats.com »

